

Revolutionists In Mexico Win and Lose

Breakdown of Revolutionary Movement Reported in Southern Mexico, But Rebels in North Have Fair Success—Two Battles Appear Imminent, One of Them Near Texas Border.

(By The Associated Press)

Complete breakdown of the revolutionary movement in Vera Cruz and other parts of southern Mexico are reported today, while the rebels in the north continued their drive toward Juarez, where a handful of federal troops awaited them.

General Jesus Aguirre, commander of the rebel forces in Vera Cruz, was believed to have taken flight by sea after severe street fighting yesterday, which ended when the consular corps secured an armistice.

The important strategic railway center of Monterey also was lost to the rebels, General Escobar evacuating the city after a severe defeat by 10,000 federal troops.

General Escobar later was driven out of Saltillo and today was retreating to Torreon along the western border of Coahuila.

Of the three chief revolutionary leaders, two have been definitely reported defeated while the third, General Bonquet in Sonora, was still consolidating his position and planning a southward movement against government forces in Sinaloa.

Cities which the government has recovered are Monterrey, Cordova, Saltillo, Orizaba, and Jalapa, while Vera Cruz had virtually been recaptured, though still needing some consolidation of position.

Battle Expected Soon.

El Paso, Texas, March 7 (AP).—Under command of General Ignacio Flores 200 federal soldiers left today at 7 o'clock this morning to proceed against a detachment of 400 revolutionists believed to be advancing against the city.

The rebel forces were reported as being 25 miles from the border city. Contact between the opposing forces was expected within a few hours. Major Frederico Alberto, spokesman for General M. J. Limon, told newspapermen a battle was imminent.

On this side of the border, United States army officials at Fort Bliss watched the situation closely. They indicated that American troops would cross the border and enter Juarez should fighting develop there in such a way as to endanger the lives of Americans in El Paso. American troops drove Francisco Villa out of Juarez in 1926 after way bullets had killed several residents of El Paso.

General R. Ramos, who resigned as Assistant Secretary of War to assume command of the troops in Juarez, said he would defend the town unless overwhelmingly outnumbered, in which case he will retreat.

Another Battle Probable.

Nogales, Arizona, March 7 (AP).—Advices to the Associated Press today from Guaymas, Sinaloa, stated that General Turbe, leading a body of rebel troops, was advancing southward and expected to take Culiacan, the state capital of Sinaloa, today.

Mexico City Isolated.

New York, March 7 (AP).—Mexico City was virtually isolated from communication with the rest of the world for several hours this morning, all important inland telegraph lines apparently having been cut. The only alternative route from Mexico City to Salina Cruz on the southwest coast where a cable beaches.

The main line from Vera Cruz to Mexico City was lost at eight o'clock this morning, eastern standard time. Cable service both to Vera Cruz and Tampico was open.

The northern border was closed except that Laredo, which is the main artery of overland communication, was able to reach as far north as Monterrey.

Nogales, Arizona, the crossing point of the Southern Pacific Mexico railway, also was closed. Radio service appeared in doubt. The only alternative route from Mexico City to Salina Cruz on the southwest coast where a cable beaches.

Rebel General Flees Vera Cruz.

Mexico City, March 6 (AP).—(Delayed).—An official bulletin tonight disclosed that magnifying street fighting occurred in Vera Cruz today between rebel forces under General Aguirre and troops which had captured the city.

The consular corps of Vera Cruz intervened after a day of almost uninterrupted clashes to prevent further bloodshed. The contending forces were persuaded to agree to an armistice. One of the conditions was that General Aguirre should leave the city.

Court Holds State Must Be Specific

Defendant in Penalty Action Under Conservation Law Entitled to Know Why He Is Being Sued—No Cause of Action in Auto Case.

Wednesday afternoon while the attorneys in the negligence action brought by Chester A. Lyons of Ashkan against Richard L. Marchant were summing up their case, County Clerk Geroldsek was holding part two of the March term of Supreme court in the supervisors' rooms on the lower floor of the courthouse where a jury was being selected in No. 5, an action brought by the People of the State of New York against David W. Rhodes, a penalty action.

When the jury had been charged by Judge Staley and retired in the negligence action, the jury in No. 5 was put immediately in the box and the case was ready to proceed. However, the case did not proceed far, for A. W. Lent, who appeared for the defendant, asked that he be permitted to know under what section of the conservation law the state's attorney was to proceed and asked to be informed what the specific charge was. The complaint as drawn charged a violation of the conservation law but made no specific charge.

Mr. Lent moved to dismiss the complaint on that ground and also on the grounds that two causes of action for penalty were incorporated under the same cause of action. The deputy attorney-general was granted permission to amend his complaint and state that the charges were brought under Section 54, subdivisions 3 and 5, of the conservation law. The charge was that the defendant had set fire to lands and negligently allowed it to spread to the lands of another, and that the fire had been set without having first secured a permit.

Case Goes Over Term

The amended complaint, however, was then attacked by Mr. Lent who pleaded surprise and asked that the case go over so that he might prepare for trial and meet the issue which has just been raised. Judge Staley ruled with Mr. Lent and stated that the defendant had a right to know on what charge he was being brought into court by the state and that he should have an opportunity to prepare a defense after he was informed of the charge. The pleading of "a violation of the conservation law" was not a specific charge and amending the complaint in court when the case was to go to trial did not permit the defendant to set up a defense. After asking the court to permit the case to go over until morning and being opposed, the deputy attorney-general asked that a juror be withdrawn and the case go over. This the court permitted and the jurors were returned to the regular panel.

No Damages For Auto Collision

Late Wednesday afternoon a verdict of no cause of action was returned by the jury in the negligence action brought by Chester A. Lyons against Richard L. Marchant. Lyons alleged damages amounting to $217.65 to his car and the defendant asked $250 in a counter claim, claiming that his car had been damaged to that extent when there was a collision at Maiden Lane and Fair street on August 13, 1927. F. and Brooks appeared for plaintiff and Judge A. C. Connelly for the defendant.

A jury was taken in three sections which are to be tried together. They are negligence actions brought by James D. Sheils and Mary Sheils against John H. Divine.

Northern Volcano in Eruption.

Copenhagen, March 7 (AP).—The Icelandic legation received reports today of an eruption of the volcano Kverfjoll, 69 miles from the coast of Iceland. The volcano is located far from the inhabited parts of the island but the eruption was plainly visible from northern Iceland. Kverfjoll is about 150 miles east of Reykjavik, the capital.

Party Strength to Support Hoover

Increased Republican Strength in Congress to Be Used in Furthering President's Policies—Peace Made With Independents.

Washington, March 7 (AP).—Republican leaders in the House are determined to use their increased party strength in the seventy-first congress to support the policies of President Hoover.

The republicans will have a plurality of probably 102 members over the democrats when the special session of Congress convenes in April to revise the tariff and pass farm relief legislation.

The lineup shows 267 seats are to be filled by republicans, 153 by democrats, and one by a Farmer-Labor member. One seat is in doubt, and another is vacant, both of which probably will be filled by democrats. This is the greatest majority the republicans have had since before the Wilson administration. So strong are the republicans that peace has been made with the independents who supported Senator La Follette in the 1924 Presidential campaign. If the hatchet has not been buried, at least that ritual has been overlooked, for Representative Fear of Wisconsin was restored to his place on the ways and means committee. He was ousted in 1926 because he followed the insurgents.

To further indicate their power, the republican leaders have agreed to increase their memberships on committees, particularly the important ones, by a majority of two to one. Committees of twenty-one members are to have 14 republicans and seven democrats. A Democratic vacancy on the agricultural committee was filled by Representative Elbert S. Brigham, a Republican of Vermont.

Block Unfriendly Senate Legislation

The majority leader, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut feels that enough power is held by administration supporters in the House to block any legislation originating in the Senate that might not meet with White House approval.

In view of this, the House leaders, Tilson said, are planning on confining activities to farm legislation and tariff revision as President Hoover said he desired in his inaugural address. As a consequence only the agricultural ways and means, accounts and rules committees would be organized. To strengthen the republican force on the powerful rules committee, Representative Lloyd Thurston of Iowa was appointed to fill a vacancy.

If the Senate revives the reapportionment bill passed by the House at the seventeenth congress, Tilson said, no difficulty would be encountered in obtaining favorable action in the special session.

Landslide Kills 40 in Madeira

Houses and Their Inmates Swept Into Atlantic Ocean as Slide Strikes One of Island's Most Beautiful Spots.

Lisbon, March 7 (AP).—Latest news from Funchal, Madeira, estimates 40 people are dead in the great landslide in the valley of St. Vincent, Madeira Island. Eleven houses were swept into the sea, says the Lisbon newspaper Seculo.

The landslide occurred at the village of Vargem in St. Vincent Parish, one of the most noted beauty spots in Madeira. Help has been asked from Funchal, capital of the island, but it is uncertain whether relief expeditions have been able to reach the scene of the disaster in the face of flooded roads and landslides elsewhere.

Vargem is perched on the mountain above the inferno river which has been flooded by heavy rains. Part of the village was swept into the river. Houses and their inmates were swept out into the Atlantic ocean. The mass of earth carried by the landslide momentarily dammed up the river, but the waters, piling up behind the barrier, suddenly broke through, carrying masses of rocks and earth, together with houses and persons, seaward.

Survivors were panic-stricken by the suddenness of the catastrophe and cries of the victims who were literally swept out of their homes into the ocean. Vargem is chiefly inhabited by farmers and fishermen.

Congress in Extra Session April 15

Washington, March 7 (AP).—An extra session of the first congress for April 15 was called today by President Hoover.

Specifically the call proposes legislation for agricultural relief and for "limited changes of the tariff."

The proclamation says that there matters cannot in justice "to our farmers, or labor and our manufacturers be postponed."

After a conference with the president, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan said he could state emphatically that the first matter which would be taken up and acted upon by the Senate would be the resolution for the reapportionment of House membership and the authorization for the taking of the 1930 census upon which the reapportionment will be based.

Prohibition Does Not Worry New Attorney General

Thinks Much Interesting Work Is Cut Out for Department of Justice But Has Faith He Can Improve Conditions—Will Not Make Hasty Moves.

Washington, March 7 (AP).—A slender, smiling, dapper man with a youthful face, who would rather shoot wild life with a motion picture camera than a rifle, emphasized today that the National Prohibition Law will be enforced.

"President Hoover's inaugural address should be platform enough for the Department of Justice," William D. Mitchell, the new Attorney General, said. Then he smiled over the problems of the first 24 hours in office and added: "I have not had time to work out any scheme for handling the prohibition question."

Wiry and sparkling of eye, Mitchell has the look of a man who would much prefer to be tramping a pack trail in his hunting clothes than to be sitting at a desk in the nation's capital dressed immaculately.

Confidence in himself and willingness to devote his best to his work is his outstanding characteristic. Although he has not had time to decide on how best to handle prohibition he did not hesitate to say that if he found the work of his department was increased, through the transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, he would ask for more funds to carry on the work.

Not Worried Over Prospects.

If the Prohibition Bureau is placed under the supervision of the Department of Justice, as President Hoover wishes, it will mean an immense increase in the work of the department. The prospects of this, however, did not seem to worry the new Attorney General in the least.

"I think we have interesting work cut out for us," he said. "I have faith that we can improve conditions. I will have to work out the problem to see whether we will need more funds and if the problem means an increase in work or personnel I will have to ask for more money."

Mitchell said he had not gone into the question of the personnel of his department. But he added, "We will make no hasty moves."

Mitchell said he had given some thought to the work of the commission to be appointed by Hoover to investigate the administration of the criminal law by the federal courts and he believed it would result in improving conditions. This particularly applied, he said, to the congestion in the criminal court dockets.

As the attorney-general talked he tore with a pile of pictures on his desk. They were photographs taken of him on a hunting trip in Alaska. "I have always liked to get back into the wilderness," he said, "back on a pack trail. Years ago I got a great deal of pleasure from hunting, far off the beaten tracks, away from civilization in the forests and mountains. But in the latter years of my life I got more pleasure out of taking motion pictures of the wild life than I do in shooting. Of course, while in the cities I get pleasure out of golf."

He said occasionally he found opportunity to slip away from the city life to go duck hunting on the waters in nearby Virginia and Maryland.

AUTOMOBILE BROKE DOWN: YOUNG PEOPLE DELAYED.

The police department at an early hour this morning was asked to help locate Ray and Floyd Barringer and Lester Van Steenburgh of Washington, who failed to return home Wednesday evening. As the young men were not in the habit of remaining away from home it was believed that misfortune had befallen them. At about the same hour the police were also informed that Beatrice Gehert of 38 Stephan street and Mildred Fear of 119 Downs street did not return home Wednesday evening and were believed victims of some mishap.

The experience was accounted for this morning when the girls returned home, stating that the automobile in which the above five young people were riding had broken down near Saugerties.

MASTEN REPORTED IMPROVED AT BENEDICTINE HOSPITAL.

The condition of Rollin H. Masten of 53 North Front street, who was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital at an early hour this morning suffering from strychnine poisoning, was reported as improved at the hospital today. Dr. F. J. Malone was summoned and had Mr. Masten removed to the hospital when he was found in his condition. It is believed that Mr. Masten, who had been suffering from nerve trouble and weak heart, had taken strychnine in too large a dose.

Curtis Influence In the Government

Vice President's Extensive Experience Leads to Expectation He Will Weigh Considerable Influence—Accepts Invitation to Attend Cabinet Sessions.

Washington, March 7 (AP).—Vice President Curtis is likely to have a larger measure of participation in the affairs of government during the Hoover administration than has any other vice president in more than a generation.

While the sole duty prescribed for the vice president is that of presiding officer over the Senate, President Hoover even before the election invited Mr. Curtis to sit in at cabinet sessions and the invitation was promptly accepted. He will be at the council table tomorrow at the first session of the Hoover cabinet.

With but a single break, the former senator has served in the two houses of Congress for more than 39 years. He was the republican leader in the Senate since the death of Henry Cabot Lodge more than four years ago. Prior to that he had been the assistant leader for a number of years.

Few men on Capitol Hill are as well posted on Senate rules and procedure as Mr. Curtis and few of them have as wide a circle of intimates among the members of Congress irrespective of party lines.

Coming to the cabinet sessions thus equipped, the vice president will be able to give valuable advice on subjects which must be placed before Congress and he will be in a position to wield considerable influence at the Capitol in the shaping of administrative measures and in the handling of them on the floor of the Senate.

Those conversant with the situation would be surprised if his advice is not sought on legislative affairs alike by President Hoover and the leaders as well as the rank and file in the Senate.

Mr. Curtis had an engagement today with President Hoover at which it was understood that the subject of his participation in administrative affairs would be discussed. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tem of the senate, who also has wide influence in the conduct of legislative affairs, was another on the President's engagement list.

Negligence Suits In Supreme Court

Three Settled After Jury Is Selected. Inquest Taken in Another, and Trial Begins in Still Another.

At the opening of Supreme court this morning the three actions brought by James D. Sheils and Mary E. Sheils against John H. Divine, negligence actions, were announced as settled and the jury which had been selected Wednesday afternoon was returned to the regular panel. John W. Eckert appeared for the plaintiffs and A. J. Cook appeared for the defendant.

A jury was then taken in No. 247, Charles Johnson against William Davis Hawk, another negligence action which grows out of an accident near Kerhonkson in April of last year. The accident involves a truck driven by John C. Hummel, an employee of Mr. Hawk, and a wagon owned by Johnson and also a second automobile the jurors were excused until 2 o'clock when the case went to trial. Vernon Kelder and Chris J. Flanagan appear for plaintiff and John W. Eckert for the defendant.

An inquest was also taken in an action brought by Lorin Osterhout of Highland against Mrs. Anna E. French. On June 21, 1928, plaintiff's car, driven by his son, Charles, was struck by the defendant's car on Vineyard avenue in the village of Highland. The Dodge car of plaintiff was damaged by the Essex coach of defendant. No answer was put in and there was no defense. Plaintiff claimed $113.45 for repair bill and also eight days' loss of use of the car which was testified to be worth $15 a day although the actual repairs took but four days and eight days were consumed in getting repair parts. John F. Wadlin appeared for plaintiff.

Deny Lindbergh Wedding Date

Mexico City, March 7 (AP).—Colonel Charles Lindbergh had the use of his right arm today for the first time since the accident a week ago at night when his plane crashed on landing from a picnic trip with his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow.

His physician allowed him to remove the sling which had held his arm in place until the effects of a dislocated shoulder could be overcome.

Meanwhile popular interest in revolutionary activities has drawn attention away from the colonel and his romance. Both the colonel and Miss Morrow are enjoying their unaccustomed freedom from publicity.

An authoritative source denied reports circulating that invitations to the Lindbergh-Morrow wedding had been transmitted to the United States by secret code. No invitations, it was stated, had been sent and a date for the wedding had not been fixed.

The prevailing opinion still is that the wedding will take place here although forecasts of any kind are admittedly guess work.

Boy Scouts Hold Court of Honor

Higginson Achievement Cup and County Rally Trophy Awarded at Interesting Ceremony Held at the Court House.

The Boy Scout Court of Honor held in the court house Wednesday evening proved very interesting and was counted a great success. Nearly 200 scouts, most of them from Kingston, and many friends witnessed the ceremonies. The Rev. E. D. Miner, Scoutmaster of Troop 1 of New Paltz, was present with about twenty scouts. The Higginson Achievement Cup and also the County Rally Trophy were awarded to Troop 1 of the Y. M. C. A. of Kingston. The Achievement Cup is awarded to the troop in Kingston making the most progress during the past year. The County Rally Trophy was awarded to the troop making the most points in competition at the recent county rally.

Assembly was sounded by Scout Ralph Pelen of Troop 11. Dr. M. J. Michael then called the court to order. In a brief and appropriate address Dr. Michael outlined the objectives and aims of the Scout program. Vernon Miller led the Scouts in singing "America." This was followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the repeating of the Scout oath and laws. Dr. Michael and Scout Executive Smith conducted the investiture ceremony after which the second class pins were presented by Max L. Reben, the first class pins by E. F. Flanagan and the star emblems by Sidney Clapp who is an Eagle Scout.

Winds Spread Snow and Cold.

Chicago, March 7 (AP).—Destructive west winds spread snow and cold over the midwest last night, causing personal injuries, property damage and possibly loss of life. Fire added its menace to the other elements at work. At Tomahawk, Wis., the wind whipped a fire through the business section, causing a loss of $500,000.

Six persons were injured in Chicago and three others, who set out on Lake Michigan yesterday in a small fishing boat, were believed lost in the gale.

The cold wave came just when the midwest was enjoying its balmy weather. In Chicago the season's high temperature of 58 had been recorded before the gale sent the mercury down 40 degrees in 12 hours. Similar drops were reported in many other cities.

Today the wind ripped across Ohio, reaching a velocity officially reported at 65 miles an hour. A $250,000 fire destroyed a two-story building in downtown Cleveland and for a time threatened an entire business block. Considerable damage was reported throughout the state. Wire communication was hampered.

The wind, which reached a velocity of 45 miles an hour about Chicago, broke windows, trees, chimneys, and signs in Milwaukee and Chicago. Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota reported a heavy snowfall that hampered traffic.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth," had breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

BULLET HALTS FREEDOM DASH

Boston Billy's Spectacular Attempt to Beat Prison Rap Is Foiled.

Attney, N. Y.—Boston Billy WH Hanna otherwise James Francis Monaghan, ex-convict corner tough boy of Worcester, Mass., almost kept his promise recently to beat the rap.

The rap was fifty years in prison and the man who police say netted $1,000,000 in thefts and ended up with a sack of capital of a sawback took another desperate chance in the series of dramatic episodes he has packed into his twenty-six years.

First he kicked down a deputy sheriff while the train in which he was being returned to prison was being transported here, and then, temporarily freed of handcuffs, seized the sheriff's pistol, snatched it with a car window in the washroom and tried to crawl out. Another guard, a Nassau county detective, drew his revolver and fired as Monaghan tried to scramble over the shattered glass.

Furrows His Scalp.
The bullet tore a furrow in Monaghan's scalp and he fell back to the washroom floor with the cry, "You've got me this time." The bullet, fired at an angle, sped on, drilled through the steel wall of the pullman car and fastened itself against the opposite side of the berth in which a woman and her baby were sleeping. Neither was hurt.

Leaping to his feet, Monaghan fought like a caged rat, in spite of his wound. As he fought the detective a third guard who had been on the platform rushed in. A blow from a blackjack ended the unequal struggle, and the handcuffs were snapped once more on the criminal's wrists. A short time later, his head bandaged, Monaghan lay in his cell in Dannemora prison, Clinton, his dream of freedom still a dream.

Boston Billy is the thief and gang leader who committed the $100,000 jewelry robbery in the home of Jesse Livermore at King's Point, L. I., in 1927.

Alleged Accomplice Arrested.
Brought to Mineola, "Boston Billy" warned the authorities they would not keep him long. The white enameled bars of the Nassau county jail kept him, however, and after a hunger strike the thief set fire to a mattress in his cell. This also failed to lead to freedom.

Brought to trial, he was convicted and sentenced to half a century in Sing Sing.

In Sing Sing Monaghan repeated his threats and balked at prison discipline. Finally he was transferred to Dannemora, where it was believed his chances for escape were less.

Then Monaghan's alleged accomplice, Edgar Kane, former chamberlain for Mr. Livermore, was arrested in Wisconsin and "Boston Billy" promptly advised District Attorney Elvin M. Edwards of Nassau county and Capt. Harold R. Kitz of the county police that he "knew Kane" and was ready to sell everything. Police say they now realize this was merely a trick on Monaghan's part to get out of prison and make a break for freedom.

Asked on the witness stand about his confession implicating Kane, Monaghan denied everything. Questioned as to whether he had not said Kane was involved, Monaghan smiled sweetly and replied: "I did not."

On his way back to his cell in the cellar of the courthouse he remarked to his guards: "Well, I don't want to send another poor devil to jail."

Heads for Prison.
Monaghan started back for Dannemora in handcuffs. Because of his reputation and repeated threats, Sheriff William R. Strohm took unusual precautions. He had Serg. John Smith of the Nassau county police assigned along with Detective Arthur Boyce and Deputy Sheriff Frank Davis.

While the train was being switched from the upper to the lower level at Albany, Monaghan asked to be permitted to go to the washroom. Boyce was on the platform walking up and down. Smith was standing near the open door of the pullman to guard against a break, and Davis after unlocking the handcuffs walked behind Monaghan to the washroom. At the door the criminal turned suddenly, kicked Davis in the stomach, grabbed his gun, hurried it through the window and was trying to follow when Serg. Smith rushed in, his pistol drawn, and fired twice. One shot took effect.

Flawless Gems Rule Diamond Mart Trade

New York.—Fine diamonds of absolute purity and free from flaws are in greater demand than ever before, and exceptional stones are being produced, valued at $50,000 and $100,000 each, according to Dr. George F. Kunz, noted gem expert of Tiffany & Company, who discusses recent events in the field of Engineering and Mining Journal. Only a small number of diamonds are being cut in brilliant form, many of them being emerald cut or square.

The fine emeralds of Colombia are much in demand. Doctor Kunz declares, and unusual stones are selling as high as $2,000 to $5,000 a carat. Many precious stones with flaws are being sent to India, where a leaf or flower is engraved on them to cover the imperfection.

"Hankered to Write" at 58; Back to School

Urbana, Ill.—Because he had a "hankering to write," Alvanza E. Davis has turned his back on 20 years of army service to become the oldest undergraduate student at the University of Illinois.

This gray-haired veteran of fifty-eight, however, is no newcomer to the college world. He studied for the military before he served Uncle Sam in Germany, Alaska, Cuba and the Philippines. His theological studies were abruptly terminated in 1909 when Blackburn college authorities found a bottle of medicinal whiskey in his room.

Davis was stationed at the university after more than twenty years abroad. In 1926 he was retired with the rank of technical sergeant.

Psychology and science claim most of his attention as a student, though he claims "too much schooling tends to destroy a man's initiative."

Chasing Woodchucks.
The wise farmers, when bothered by woodchucks, resort to one of three methods in thinning them out. They insert either calcium cyanide or carbon disulphide in the chuck's burrow and seal it over. The fumes in a short time will penetrate every part of the burrow and Mr. Woodchuck is gassed to death. Another method is that of attaching a hose to the exhaust of a tractor engine or automobile and inserting down into the burrow, sealing the entrance and racing the engine. Carbon monoxide does the rest. Hunting chucks with firearms is a long drawn out job and has never been satisfactory.

Card of Thanks.
We wish to thank our relatives and friends for their many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and death of husband and father. Also for the beautiful floral tributes. MRS. MATILDA WINKKY AND SONS.

VanDyck, Sister of Vestris, Aground

Unable to Battle Winds in New York Harbor, Lined to Between Ashore: Of Governor's Island—Wind's Damage in New York City.

New York, March 7 (AP)—The Lamport & Holt liner, Van Dyck, sister ship of the Vestris, went aground off Governor's Island in the upper bay this morning as she battled the winds on her way to her pier from Buenos Aires.

Wrecking tugs went immediately to the assistance of the 13,000 ton liner. She was in no danger, but was stuck fast in the mud on the easterly side of the island. She had 275 passengers.

The 60-mile northwest wind blew down a 15-foot section of a smoke-stack on the Hotel Claridge in Times Square, and sent the huge fragment crashing through the roof of a cafeteria on West 44th street. Twenty-five employees and a score of patrons of the restaurant escaped injury as the stack cut a 30-foot hole in the roof and wrecked the kitchen equipment.

Guests in the Claridge and in the Hotel Cadillac nearby were alarmed by the crash, but were quickly assured that they were in no danger. Police reserves were called out to clear the streets in the vicinity of hundreds of pedestrians and office workers who had been attracted to the scene by the crash.

In Brooklyn, the winds cut a 20-foot slice from the sheet iron roof of the Long Island railroad freight depot, hurling the section on to crowded Hanson place. A woman received a fractured skull and numerous other pedestrians on the busy thoroughfare narrowly escape injury.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, March 7.—There was a large attendance at the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters' fair Wednesday evening. The entertainment given under the auspices of the Dorcas Society was exceptionally good. Everyone acted their parts in an able manner and everything said was heard as all spoke so clearly. The different booths were well patronized and the dining room was filled with patrons all enjoying the "eat" put on by Caterer Johnson. The country store was well patronized and everyone seemed pleased with their purchases. Lester Ferguson is the official manager in charge. Several out of town people were present and spoke in glowing terms of the way the fair was conducted. The Pythian Sister ladies were kept busy at the fancy article table and mystery booth, the children enjoying their gifts greatly. The soft drinks were in charge of William Scheraga. The whole fair is bringing to the people of Port Ewen and vicinity pleasant evenings filled with joy and mirth.

This evening the Amarello Brothers of Kingston furnish the entertainment for the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters Fair. These gentlemen are experts in string instruments and general vocal solos will be sung. Friday evening there will be no entertainment. The entire evening will be given to trip the light fantastic and a jolly good time is promised. A card party will be held at the home of Mrs. E. H. Bishop on Broadway Wednesday evening, March 13, for the benefit of the Representative Fund of Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty. The public is most cordially invited.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of Esopus Council Wednesday evening. Delicious refreshments were served by an efficient committee. At the close of the next meeting, March 20, a poverty party will be held. Members please dress in keeping for the occasion.

Specialist from Cornell in Kingston

The women of Ulster county are to have another real treat Saturday. Miss Lucile Brewer, specialist in food preparation, from the State College of Home Economics, will be at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Hall all day for two special purposes.

First, Miss Brewer is to judge and score a county-wide exhibit of "Healthful Sweets". This judging and scoring will begin at 10:30. Ribbons will be awarded the three communities displaying the finest products. Every community in the county studying food preparation will have an exhibit on display Saturday. Gift baskets, boxes of confections, favors for special day parties, sweets for children and a myriad of other attractive and delectable sweets will be found in this county-wide exhibit. Ribbons also will be awarded the three finest individual exhibits.

Second, Miss Brewer will give in the afternoon, beginning at 1:30 another of her beautiful Easter demonstrations. The basis for the demonstration this year will be the healthful sweets she has taught the women of the county to make. She will demonstrate decorations for little cakes and cookies which also make attractive packages, pretty sandwiches for Easter parties, attractive containers filled with preserves, marmalades, etc., including covering and wrapping ready for gift baskets. In fact, while everything demonstrated will be appropriate for Easter, the material shown will be equally good for other occasions.

The Ulster County Home Bureau extend a cordial invitation to all ladies in the county to be present in the afternoon to see the exhibit and to enjoy the Easter demonstration.

Learns 'Husband' Was a Woman

London, March 7 (AP)—The "wife" of "Captain Leslie Barker" was surprised today to learn her "husband" was a woman.

"Captain Barker," a boxing instructor, was arrested in connection with a bankruptcy proceeding and is being held in the woman's prison at Holloway.

"He" married Elfrida Harvard daughter of a druggist at Little Hampton, at Brighton in November 1925, after a courtship of two years. The wedding was witnessed by the parents of the bride, who said their daughter at first was very happy but later became miserable and left "him" two years ago.

The wife is now living with her parents, who said she was unaware of the masquerade until she read the newspaper stories.

MAN FROZEN TO DEATH
STANDING ON SNOWSHOES

Toronto, Ont., March 7 (AP)—Indian trappers returning from the headwaters of the Attawapiskia river in northern Ontario told of finding the frozen body of a white man standing bolt upright on snowshoes.

The Indians said the body stood with one foot slightly advanced as if about to take a step. It had been frozen solidly and the snowshoes were firmly anchored in the slush ice.

There was nothing on the clothing or among the effects in a prospector's pack to identify the body, the Indians said. The body cannot be recovered until summer.

OUR WORLD INFLUENCE.

The growing influence of the United States since the war in Europe and the world is a subject of much discussion in foreign countries, and, contrary to widespread impression in this country, much of it is not unfriendly. The reports indicate a general recognition that American influence in foreign countries is great and increasing, but as to its exact nature there is difference of opinion among foreigners. The natural supposition would be that that influence is mainly political, due primarily to this country's vast wealth and its inevitable power as the world's banker. But according to a writer in the Paris Revue des Deux Mondes, the political influence of this country abroad is small, while its "social influence" is now "universal and today affects, in different degrees, the manners and points of view of all mankind," an asserted fact said to be widely admitted.

Just what this means is not made altogether clear in the quotations from the French magazine, but the editor of the South Wales Argus is more explicit when, in declaring that "the most definite influence in the world today is that of America," its "thought, ideals and practices" (quoting Emerson, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson), for all of which the world will be "the better," he flatteringly adds: "Side by side with the crudity, materialism and restlessness of sections of the American people there is idealism, faith, the desire for national righteousness, frankness in discussing the things of the spirit."

In contrast with this pleasing tribute is the equally frank but practical business view in an article entitled "Money and Power" in the London Morning Post. "Whether we like it or not," says this editor, "we have in England to recognize the fact that the great war of the twentieth century has done for the United States what the great war of the nineteenth century did for Great Britain." As England became after her defeat of Napoleon, so America after the results of the World War, has become "a banking establishment for all nations which, by loans and the receipt of interest on them, makes all the people of the earth her tributaries." That this development is at the back of or powerfully concerned in the extension of America's "social influence" abroad, even the idealist, it also a shrewd observer of human affairs, will frankly admit.

BEAUTY AND SURGERY.

Even the most expensive and advanced of beauty parlors is likely to think twice before keeping a surgeon on the premises ready for business at call—in France, at least. For a French court has ruled that, even in the supposed interests of beauty, it is unlawful to perform "an operation involving grave risks on a healthy limb without any therapeutic necessity for such operation or even any usefulness whatever to the health of the person operated on." In consequence, Dr. Charles Dujardin must pay 200,000 francs damages and the girl he operated on in the name of beauty has learned her lesson.

The spectacle now presented to the modern world would seem to be proof that women in general are not only contented with but have a good opinion of the legs that nature gave them. But Mlle. Suzanne Geoffroy of Paris seems to have had an artistic eye that told her that very many legs, including her own, were not all that they should be. Though her own were neither bowed nor knock-kneed, they were of a thickness that displeased her eye and she determined to have them improved at any cost. Suzanne's willingness to take risks and endure pain in such a cause is less surprising than the fact that the surgeon yielded to entreaty and undertook so delicate an operation.

The sad result of his efforts to carve down too solid flesh was gangrene with the consequent necessity of amputation in order to save life. Poor crippled Suzanne is now under and wiser too late. As for the risk-taking surgeon, he must have concluded that he was a fool even before he had to go to work to raise money in order to pay damages. The wonder is that he got off so easily.

After being passed by the House the Penn reapportionment bill was rejected, "dropped," in the Senate without even a vote. The opposition was not confined to small States liable to lose representation and its prominent characteristic was revealed in the announcement of Senator Black that he was determined to oppose to "a measure destined in the long run to change prematurely the great balance of legislative power in this nation from the rural districts to the great metropolitan areas." Fair reapportionment would undoubtedly increase urban representation and for this reason the Anti-Falloon League is said to have worked against any action ever since 1920. But what about the provision of the Constitution for reapportionment after every ten-year census? Is that to be repealed, or completely ignored, and present representation to remain permanent? The answer to this question is more important than some of our national legislators seem to think.

There must be a new art of singing "as natural as speaking," according to Arthur Honegger, the French composer of operas who says: "It is stupid to hold the mouth open so long and to make so much noise." Observers of the more fastidious type have long thought that something was wrong.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

CHLORIDE FOR THE HEART.

Some months ago you read in the papers that King George's physicians were giving him calcium.

As you know the ordinary everyday name for calcium is lime, and your thought about it is likely that it is simply a bleaching powder or a disinfectant.

You know also of its power to render water safe to drink, and this means life or death to armies, to camps, or to individuals who, when thirsty, may drink from any stream or pool available. A level teaspoonful of chloride of lime will purify hundreds of gallons of water. Just all that it does in the body is not known at present, but even as it has the power to destroy odors and harmful organisms about stables and out houses, so also can it destroy harmful organisms in the body. One of its uses has been to thicken or coagulate the blood in individuals subject to bleeding, or those who have some internal organ or tissue that is bleeding.

Its power to heal ulcers, various ulcers of the leg, has been demonstrated during the past three years in many hospitals. You will remember that King George, after the pneumonia and pleurisy had subsided, was very weak, and measures were taken to build up his strength. This included artificial sunlight, and later the use of calcium or lime. After a severe illness of this kind the mineral content of the tissues seems to be low and lime is one of Nature's best mineral builders. However its effect upon the heart muscle make it a most valuable drug, because it increases the contracting or squeezing power of the heart just when the heart muscle is about exhausted. It appears to have such an effect in the walls of the blood vessels that they become more relaxed, and permit the blood to pass through them with less resistance. This makes things easier for the heart to do its work.

You can thus see then that our old friend, chloride of lime, just a disinfectant in former days, now is recognized as of use in skin ailments, in bleeding of all kinds, in building up the structure of the body in children and adults, and finally as a most efficient heart tonic. I dislike talking about dosage, as five grains at a dose is more than enough for some patients and others take as much as 15 grains safely. It is given in water, milk, or syrup, three times a day after meals. Ask your doctor about it for any of the above uses.

MOMBACCUS CENTER.

Mombaccus Center, March 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Osterhout of Pataunkunk called on Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Herring last Monday evening. The Mombaccus M. E. Church has been equipped with electric lights.

Elting Churchwell and others are drawing logs to Eli Quick's saw mill for George Kortright, who is preparing to build a barn in place of the one that was burned last summer.

Last week was a cold time for Mombaccus, the thermometer registering zero and below mornings. The weather was very acceptable to those who had wood and logs to draw with sleighs and horses. The following two days of warmer weather spoiled the sleighing.

John Schoonmaker of Pataunkunk called on J. M. Herring on Wednesday, bringing him a load of hay.

After reading in The Freeman the reminiscences of Shepard Bell and others, John Herring of this place thought he would recall some of the things that took place in his youthful days. Mr. Herring, who was born at Boiceville, on the former Herring farm, now the camping grounds for the Boiceville reunions, and went to school with Shepard Bell, can remember the laying of the first railroad ties at that place. He recalls seeing the first train arrive at Boiceville with Clark North sawing wood to feed the engine. The first train then stood on a flat car behind the locomotive. The first engine to travel over the road was the Pennsylvania, and Mr. Herring remembers it well. He also recalls the time when the nearest stone and wood dock was at Kingston. Mr. Herring, who removed to Mombaccus in 1897, where he has since resided, in commenting on wages paid when he was a youth, said that he at one time worked for $11 a month and board.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, March 7.—The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church held their annual meeting in the church Friday afternoon, March 1. The officers, who were re-elected for the coming year were: Mrs. Herman Quick, president; Mrs. Julia Hornbeck, vice president; Miss Edna Hornbeck, treasurer; Miss Helen Hornbeck, secretary, and social committee. Mrs. Jacob G. DeWitt, Miss Louella Hornbeck, Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck, Mrs. Alex Brown and Mrs. Norman Quick. After the business meeting fine refreshments were served by Mrs. Alex Brown and Mrs. Herman Quick.

Mrs. Jacob G. DeWitt was a guest at the home of Mrs. A. R. Hall Davis on Tuesday.

Mrs. Florence Slater has returned to her home at Kerhonkson after spending two weeks at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lawrence.

A St. Patrick Day social will be held Thursday evening, March 14, in the Camp Grove House, the home of Montena DeWitt, near the M. E. Church. Members of the Ladies Aid Society will serve a variety supper with the refreshments of ice cream and candy. Supper will be served from 7 o'clock on during the evening. All welcome.

Mrs. "Abe" Hendrickson is very ill with an attack of the grip and flu. All hope for her speedy recovery.

for Argentine Family

Buenos Aires.—Simple and unpretentious in its exterior appearance, one family vault in the Chacarita cemetery holds a vast store of wealth. It is completely lined with gold and cost approximately 1,000,000 pesos ($200,000). It also contains a small statue of a woman, a work of Botticelli, said to cost 70,000 pesos. The vault was constructed 19 years ago by Angel Roverano.

Designs which were being worked out in the floor in small gold blocks were never completed, because the will of Roverano provided that the tomb must be closed on the death of his only surviving relative, a brother, who died several years ago.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

By CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Commanding his first ship was in itself a singular experience for Fried, but with it was added the thrills of escaping two attacks by submarines. Full speed, a decoy, and a zig-zagging course eluded one danger; he broke clear away from his convoy and crossed the Atlantic alone, on the other.

CHAPTER X.

My first experience as captain of my own ship was aboard the Zuiderdijk, during the war. This was a freighter which transported munitions, foodstuffs and railroad equipment. She had about 150 men in her crew.

Going out aboard the ship in command for the first time is in itself a thrilling experience. You are impressed with the responsibility, the safety of the ship, her crew, and the men are naturally in your hands. An error in judgment might lose all, and everyone is dependent upon you. You are sort of a king, a monarch of all you survey. You no longer have a routine to follow. It is constant anxiety until dashed to the starboard, giving the same order.

Some of the men, as I glanced at them quickly, seemed astounded, but no boat could be lowered with the vessel at full speed. It was safer for us to be moving and zig-zagging than it would have been taking chances to slow down and make the ship a target for our attackers. Later the ships met at a rendezvous and we were safely escorted to port.

We had no guns aboard the Zuiderdijk, so I decided to rig up a dummy to look like a big gun to incoming submarines so that they would not take us by shell fire, as I would rather take chances with torpedoes than gun fire. That scare proved a good influence on the whole crew, for no one ever became excited again.

On our return voyage I went to Plymouth and started from Plymouth with 12 other ships. We were just outside the entrance of the English Channel when a submarine got between two freighters and torpedoed both of them. The convoy spread. I never did believe that it was fair for German "U-Boats" to sink without warning, for it certainly lacked courage, on their part. In this instance, the ships were unarmed and carried nothing, returnyou know that you have men who are competent to handle the tasks assigned to them. Even then you feel more secure by constant supervision.

"I Shouted 'Don't Lower the Boats.' We Zigzagged From Danger."

One of the first things I did after I took command of the Zuiderdijk was to post in the chart room in conspicuous places, "Safety First—Take No Chances," and "Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Safety." This bit of advice was printed in large letters so that every man entering the chart room could not help but have the warning impressed upon him.

On my first voyage bound for France we were not far off the French coast when a freighter traveling in a convoy just 200 yards away was torpedoed. It was just after sunset, and I must admit that it was the worst scare I had ever had in my life.

A general alarm was sounded on our ship to let everyone know that we were being attacked. There was consternation. It seemed that the entire crew bent it for the life boats. The boats were all rigged up ready to lower with full equipment. My first thought was to order full speed ahead and the engine room responded with full speed and a little more. The next thought was the men. I grabbed a megaphone and ran to the portside of the bridge shouting, "Don't lower the boats; don't lower the boats." I then ing to this country in ballast. We had orders to proceed in an emergency of this kind and to leave the disabled vessels behind to be taken care of by the destroyers.

I continued on the voyage alone and was two days out of New York when I had a peculiar premonition. I told some of the deck officers that I was feeling uneasy, and that I could not sleep, although I had turned in several times. Being out of the submarine danger zone, I ordered the running lights turned on, and hardly had this order been carried out when we discovered a convoy of about 40 ships directly in our path. I was following instructions and the route laid out for me so that no ships should have been on the same course. I signaled to the leading ship by blinker light, thereby avoiding a collision.

We decided the convoy and the remainder of the journey to port was uneventful. I remained as commander of the Zuiderdijk for eight months before being transferred. In August, 1918, I was assigned navigating officer of the America, the vessel I now have the privilege of commanding. During this period the America carried troops to Europe and home after the armistice. Among them were many members of the Twenty-sixth (Yankee) division. (Tomorrow: Licking a Crew into Form)

EVERY AILMENT LADY HAD WAS SWEEP AWAY

She Declares That The Famous Nu-Erb Ended Disorders of Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

"For some time past I have suffered misery because of stomach, kidney and bowel troubles," said Mrs. William Ackert, Hurley, N. Y., in a recent statement to the Nu-Erb man at McElride Drug Store.

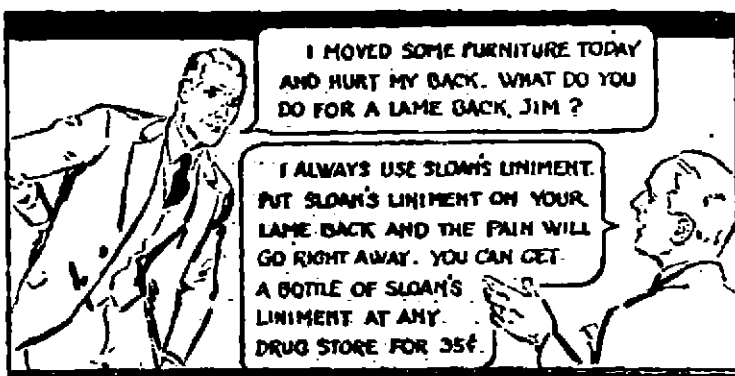

"I'd get severe pains through the pit of my stomach because of indigestion and gas formations. I'd also get sick bilious attacks, frequent dizzy spells and floating spots before my eyes. I would get aches pains through my back and joints and my bowels would not move without the continual aid of harsh laxatives. I became very nervous and slept poorly at night."

"It is only a few weeks ago that I started using the Nu-Erb, but it has improved each one of these troubles so that I can now eat anything I want without suffering any distress because of indigestion or gas. The rheumatic pains have comtirely disappeared and I no longer get those dizzy spells or floating spots before my eyes. My nerves have been strengthened so that I sleep soundly at night and feel refreshed and ready for my day's work when I get up in the morning. I am also feeling stronger and more energetic in every way."

If you feel tired and aching all the time it is because your blood is below normal. If the trouble is from improper functioning of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, the health building medicine, Dr. French's Nu-Erb, will quickly relieve the suffering and restore health and strength.

McElride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Essay Contest Closes March 15

The Rondout Valley Chamber of Commerce essay contest is in full swing. The boys and girls in the Rondout Valley are busy putting on the finishing touches to their literary masterpieces. In the cities and along the highways, the motorists are chasing the watts, and on the hills and in the backwoods the midnight oil illuminates even the darkest nights. The libraries are rendering meritorious cooperation to the budding historians. Antiquated books have been dusted for facts which may have escaped the later historians. The teachers in the various schools feel the keen competition in which their schools and pupils are engaged.

The contest closes March 15. Every boy or girl under 18 years.

Living in the Rondout Valley or attending a school within twelve miles of any point in the valley, is eligible. Every boy and girl should try for one of the prizes or certificates. Every boy and girl should feel anxious to have his or her school come out first in the contest. The essays are to be the basis of a history of the valley which every contestant will feel he or she has had a hand in the making. The essays are to be handed in by March 15 but can be submitted on any prior date.

Men Are Safer Than Women As Drivers

Facts Established During Year's Tests.

Washington.—The perennial family argument as to whether man or woman drivers get into more automobile accidents can at last be backed up with some facts and figures that indicate sex differences.

Records of man and woman taxicab drivers in a Pennsylvania city have been watched for an entire year by Dr. Morris Viteles and Helen M. Gardner of the University of Pennsylvania.

The results, reported in the Personnel Journal, show that the woman taxicab drivers were responsible for three times as many accidents as men, though, judging by claims following accidents, the women were more successful in keeping out of serious trouble.

These men and women operated the same kind of car and all equipment was regularly overhauled. Both drove in stormy weather and in the same traffic conditions.

Women Were Less Experienced. The men, however, were more experienced, on the whole, than the women, for some of the women were not experienced drivers when hired, but were given a thorough course of training and immediately placed on calls. This would seem to be an important psychological factor, but the taxicab company records could not be kept in such detail as to show whether the new driver offsets inexperience with excessive caution or whether this caution oversteps the mark and leads to an excessive number of cases of collisions.

About 2,000 men drivers were on the employment rolls at a time and about forty women. The men drove 28,431,719 miles in the year and had 7,311 accidents. The women drove 248,979 miles and had 268 accidents. In terms of revenue the women had three and one-half times as many accidents per thousand dollars as the men.

Women Dodge Accident Claims. A special study of accident costs in one representative month showed that there were 191 claims in the accidents of men drivers and four claims in cases involving women drivers. The claims indicate that women got into less serious mixups than the men, for the total cost of claims against men was $14,000, as compared with $75 against woman drivers.

The psychologists conclude that the figures from the study "favor the point of view that the present generation of women drivers is more susceptible to accidents than the present generation of men drivers."

They also state: "The extent to which this is the result of relative inexperience in driving or of a sex-determined difference in susceptibility to accidents in traffic cannot be finally determined from an examination of the present data. The fact, however, that a sampling of women suffer more accidents when driving under the same conditions as a somewhat smaller sampling of men is clearly established."

Seeks to Minimize Tin in Silk Dresses

State College, Pa.—Silken dresses already are light in weight, but they may be made even lighter through research started by Miss Winifred Matlier Forbes Pennsylvania State college.

She is investigating the amount of metal necessary for weighting silken garments to enable them to keep their form. Tin is used often for this purpose. Excessive weighting is said to shorten the life of the fabric. Dresses ranging in price from $5 to $12 sometimes carry more than 50 per cent of their weight in tin.

Miss Forbes' work will be under a fellowship awarded by the textile section of the American Home Economics association.

Brought Rich Return

Some years ago a woman received as one of her Christmas presents a pearl necklace from her husband. Not being in opulent circumstances, he was unable to spend more than $25 for them, but their foster pleased his wife, however, and for some years she wore them many, many times until recently the string broke and she carried them to the same jeweler to be restringed.

She had hardly reached her home when she received a telephone call from the senior partner of the firm, who asked her to call the next morning. To her amazement, she found that what she thought were excellent imitations were the real thing and valued at about $5,000. They had been sold by an inexperienced salesman, it appeared.

Leaving the jewels she returned home and several days later was the recipient of a letter from the jeweler containing a check for $1,000 and a box containing another string of pearls worth three or four times as much as the original price paid for her first necklace.—Springfield Union.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, March 6.—The world wide broadcasting of the inaugural ceremonies on Monday drew together attentive groups among the radio equipped homes throughout the community, which no doubt was representative of that which took place in all parts of the country. The very atmosphere itself seemed charged with solemnity as Chief Justice Taft administered that most solemn and binding obligation to President-elect Hoover.

Judge F. L. Weidner succeeded in tapping the major portion of his sap bush just in time for the rain storm would have meant extra work plenty emptying all the buckets when the weather had cleared.

Lauren Hesley hauled a large truck load of G. L. F. feed from High Falls on Tuesday, which was distributed among neighboring farmers. The condition of Mrs. Orville Harber is reported as being slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Every and daughter of Cherryville are visiting relatives at Maple Dell Farm. Charles and Lauren Hesley on Monday assisted E. C. Davis with the butchering of a number of young porkers, which were sold to R. B. Longyear, of the Phoenixia market.

John Jordan, with a couple of assistants, was engaged in wood sawing on Monday of this week. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alouzo Burgher, who reside in Kingston, are grieved to learn that the condition of their son, who has been very seriously ill for some time, is reported as not much improved.

There was a cold rain storm on Tuesday. March appears to be maintaining its general reputation in handing out weather according to its changeableness. Wednesday every sign of the storm disappeared, not a cloud in the sky, but how the wind did blow.

Among the cherished possessions of Mrs. M. J. Every of Traver Hollow is a counterpane of rare design, which was made more than a century ago. Although being the recipient of tempting offers, the owner has no desire to dispose of this relic of bygone days.

Allen Rose, superintendent of the Ross J. Lynn estate at Traver Hollow, was on Tuesday a local business caller. He was accompanied by his brother, Clarence.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Watson Bishop entertained at her home at West Shokan Heights the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Longyear, of Phoenixia, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Snyder and family of the Traver Hollow Inn.

A number of local residents are having their homes wired, so as to be in readiness when electricity is available from the long heralded electric line, which is gradually winding its way from Cold Brook.

The children having perfect attendance for the month of February in the Broadhead school were Cornelia Davis, Ross Atkins, Irving Bell, Joseph Bushie, Willard Freer and Robert Gordon. Some of the pupils were excused on Monday as they could "listen in" on the inaugural exercises at Washington.

However, only the girls remained to hear as the boys grew hungry and came back to school. Those who stayed were Cornelia Davis, Elizabeth Shultis and Maria Miller. The teacher wishes to thank Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Gordon for entertaining the children at that time.

In the monthly examinations held at Broadhead school, the averages for the month were as follows: Seventh grade: Maria Miller, 97; Elizabeth Shultis, 95; Robert Gordon, 95; Ross Atkins, 97; John Ellsworth, 91; Fifth Grade: Joseph Bushie, 98; Willard Freer, 98; Cornelia Davis, 94; Third Grade: Ruth Gordon, 94; Lorraine Tweedy, 93; Irving Bell, 94.

John Ellsworth, a pupil in Broadhead school, was absent on Monday because he had an appointment with a dentist in Kingston. The children made merry with John on Friday, the occasion being his birthday.

Indians Enjoy Riches As Land Once Scorned Yields Oil And Metals

The Osage and Quapaw Indians lived in poverty until the discovery of oil, zinc and lead on their hilly and rocky holdings. Victor Grimm (left), Quapaw interpreter, is a zinc and lead king, and Maud Lee (right) Osage-Seneca maiden, has a fortune estimated at $5,000,000. The rich Indians build the homes, like the one shown.

By BENNETT WOLFE.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Oklahoma City (AP).—The Osage and Quapaw Indian tribes enjoy untold riches because the white man put them on land he did not want.

When the reservations were marked off, nobody dreamed that some day the hills given to the Osages would be dotted with oil derricks and the prairie set aside for the Quapaws would yield zinc and lead as well as hay.

Today the Osages are the richest people on earth. The 2,229 "head-rights" or estates in the tribe exceeding $100,000 each in value. Unlike the Quapaws, the Osages hold their wealth in common.

The lead and zinc holdings of the Quapaws bring more than $1,500,000 in royalties to 65 restricted members of the tribe, but marriage and inheritance have served to distribute the money generally among other members.

Mrs. Anna Beaver Bear Hallam, restricted owner of land on which is located the Anna Beaver mine, owned by Harry Payne Whitney of New York, gets some of the largest royalty payments. For several months her income from the metals piled up at the rate of $50,000 a month. Four years ago, she was almost penniless.

The Quapaws were a nomadic tribe when they were placed on their present reservation in 1837. The land was valued at a dime an acre by white men.

Under the treaty by which the tribe was given the reservation, the government, "in view of their wretched and impoverished condition," agreed to move the Quapaws to their new home and to furnish them livestock, farm implements, firearms and other equipment.

Nothing except hay was produced on the tribe's new lands. White men leased it paying the Indians a pittance. The town of Quapaw sprang up and became the greatest hay shipping point in the world for a time. The Indians cared nothing for the hay, the land or much of anything else. They wanted to fish and hunt and be left alone.

In 1905, zinc ore was found while a water well was being drilled on the land of Felix Dardene, a Quapaw Indian. The driller knew the metal in the cuttings from his drill denoted a rich strike, but he lacked the business sense to take advantage of the opportunity to win a great fortune.

He quit work and drove to Baxter Springs, Kas., where he spread the news. A bystander in one of the crowds the driller drew slipped away and visited Dardene, leasing all his land and much surrounding it. He made a fortune.

It has meant something to be an Osage Indian with a large family home prior to 1907, when the tribal allotment of lands was made. Each Osage was given more than 700 acres that year. A man with a wife and five children had control of 5,000 acres of land, and received $21,000 quarterly until the eldest child became of age.

Distinction of having the largest

Osage family was held by Clement de Noya. He controlled eleven head-rights, including his own, his wife's and those of their nine children. This family has received as much as $40,000 in one quarterly payment.

Few Taxpayers Visit Auditor

Few state income taxpayers have taken advantage of the service of R. Hayes, auditor of the bureau, who has been designated to assist them by District Director Malone of the Albany district and can be found at the court house, Kingston, March 7, 8, 9.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscottin that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of known drugs, croscottin is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscottin, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the croscottin goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

The Economy of FRIGIDAIRE

The temperature in Frigidaire is low enough to prevent food spoilage almost indefinitely. For this reason marketing need not be done every day, as Frigidaire will keep a supply of green vegetables fresh and crisp, and will prevent the tainting of meats, butter, and other perishable foodstuffs.

Left-overs, prepared palatably, will also keep in Frigidaire, a distinct element in table economy.

Of course, to take advantage of Frigidaire to the greatest degree, considerable depends upon the placement of foods in it. Our several home service directors have had opportunities to make careful studies regarding economies that are possible from the storage space provided in the Frigidaire. These and many other items of interest to home makers will be included in our weekly home service lessons. The subjects for all classes appear in the daily papers in advance of the meeting dates. Why not plan to attend?

Cold Control is the latest Frigidaire improvement. It is a simple device, which can be set at any of six freezing speeds. In this way you can hasten the freezing of ice cubes or of delicious desserts. Exclusively a Frigidaire feature.

"By Joe! it's good to smoke Luckies."

Felix Count Luckner

"Lucky Strikes? By Joe, yes. Let me tell you. I was cruising in my raider in the South Pacific. It had been damp, rainy weather and every bit of tobacco we had on the ship was mouldy and could not be smoked. We began to be desperate. The men were—what you call—grouchy. Along came an American ship. We captured her and after taking the captain, officers and crew aboard my raider and finding comfortable places for them to stay, I and my officers went over to the captured ship to see if there was anything aboard her that we wanted. We searched her. And what do you think? Under the cushions of a seat in the captain's cabin we found 500 packages of Lucky Strikes! I tore off the end of one and lit it and filled my lungs with it, and By Joe, I was a man again. We had enough for all the crew and we were all cheered up and we all became friends once more. By Joe, I was sorry to sink that American ship that had brought us those smokes. Lucky Strikes, they are wonderful, and my Countess, of course, wishes a fashionable, slender figure. She smokes Lucky Strikes when she is offered fattening sweets. And my life has always been an active one and I must be trim and fit. I love to feel what you Americans call 'peppy.' So no sweets for me. Give me a Lucky Strike instead. By Joe, it's good for us to smoke Luckies."

COUNT FELIX VON LUCKNER

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

POUGHKEEPSIE MAN FOUND DEAD BESIDE STILL IN ATTIC

Daniel Lamb, 62, of 62 Front street, Poughkeepsie, was found dead in a dingy attic room of his home late Tuesday afternoon, the victim, authorities believe, of a liquor-distilling contrivance of one gallon capacity which was still working when the tragedy was discovered. "STRAIGHT RATING" another big advantage for TRUCK USERS

Announced by

GENERAL MOTORS TRUCKS

THIS EXPLAINS IT QUICKLY:

FIRST of all, STRAIGHT RATING removes vagueness and risky guess-work.

For any GENERAL MOTORS TRUCKS, the maximum allowable total gross weight is given and guaranteed. Exact weight of chassis is given. Exact weight of any type of body is known. These subtracted from the maximum allowable total gross weight plainly and clearly give the full pay-load capacity—the capacity which will be most efficiently, therefore most economically, handled by any model equipped with any particular type body.

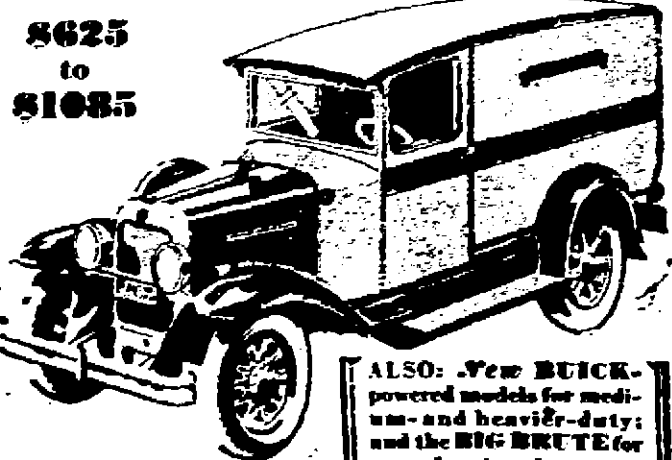

You don't have to take a chance on overloading—or multiplying your guarantee, running up maintenance costs, or shortening the truck's life. You don't have to buy and operate more capacity than you need. Knowing just what you need, you get it exactly.

And with this clear advance knowledge, you get the equipment exactly right to do its job and give utmost mileage.

PLUS the news of a great LIGHT DUTY series made greater by 1929 PONTIAC engines

Advancements in this famous engine provide 10% to 30% actual performance increase... Huskier trucks throughout... Four wheel brakes... A long list of extra value features... Models of 7 different basic STRAIGHT RATING capacities (Chassis only, F.O.B., Pontiac, Mich.):

I love the nights of the city.
When the night lights come on
And glow the dark with joy,
From dusk to the early dawn.

They charm and lull me ever,
And beauty of night would be gone,
If I thought again I might never
See the lights of the city come on.

The grocer had just put a new boy to work, and among the other instructions was this:

"If you don't happen to have what a customer wants, suggest something else as nearly like it as possible."

Soon a woman came into the store and asked the boy, "Have you any fresh green stuff today?"

"No, ma'am," answered the boy, "but we have some nice bluing."

There's a foresighted woman for you. She wrote a letter on the 12th, but she dated it the 25th. Why not? She was going to give it to her husband to mail.

Delay Is Dangerous.

A young woman was being cross-examined in court.

"How old are you?" asked the judge. She hesitated.

"Don't hesitate," he said; "every second makes it worse."

They sat in the swing at midnight, but her love was not to his taste. His neck was but thirty-six inches, while hers was a forty-six waist.

Unless a girl marries for love the wedding ceremony becomes an auction.

To a woman there is more joy in one operation than in ninety and nine just ordinary cases of sickness.

Mother: "Do you want to hear the story about a good little girl?"

Modern Daughter (six years old): "What was she good at?"

THE NERVE TO TRY

He said that he would do it.
And he had the nerve to try
And the heart to stay right by it
And all the obstacles defy.
And we know that he has done it,
And we know the reason why
Was because he said he'd do it
And he had the nerve to try.

"I feel awfully anxious about my wife," said Jones to his friend; "she's out in the downpour of rain."

"Oh, she'll be all right, old man," answered Brown; "she'll find shelter in some store."

"Yes," sighed Black, "that's what makes me anxious. She's got $10 of mine."

Offer New Modes at Fashion Show

Color Combinations in Line-light; Ensemble Still Prime Favorite.

Much interest was centered on the spring fashions show recently held in New York.

In the mannequin parade, one fact stood out clearly, namely the preference for two fabrics and two colors, where heretofore one varied.

Color combinations were varied. The most frequently repeated schemes involved shades of blue, or indigo, and blue, with tones of the sunburned case variously designated as orange apricot and peach and so on.

Black and white, especially in arrangements calling for white fur on black cloth or crepe, was also exploited with shades of beige and nude, and combinations employing red, black and white as outstanding especially for sports. All white and all black had practically no representation, but white cleverly enlivened with color, and black toned up with white, or with color were in evidence.

That the ensemble remains the mainstay of the smart wardrobe was clear. The ensemble has endless interpretations, with short jackets and abbreviated coats much more generally accepted. Evening gowns are seeming incomplete without a jacket or cape of some sort.

Transparent velvets, brocaded silks and chiffons were the fabrics used for these charming accompaniments of the evening gown. Evening gowns, as was to be expected, were ultra feminine, fluttering types in a diversity of materials among which rayon and celanese were worthy additions to a long list of other materials. A charming group of organdie dresses was well received, thus advancing the cause of cotton, which also had a niche effectively filled by a group of cottons and check gingham.

There were fewer flowered prints.

Among the evening gowns were some picturesque pompadour taffetas and a few flowered chiffons. While green was an oft repeated color in the evening frocks, shades of orange and warm sunburned yellows were repeated.

The all-white evening gown was beautifully represented in tulle and crystal embroidered and in a wedding gown the top of which was lace and

The Fringed Evening

and Correct

New York—It seems quite impossible to exhaust the possibilities of printed materials for evening. From the sheerness of chiffons to the stiffness of taffetas, the feeling is for decoration. Embroideries in semblance of printing were among the extravagances of the late Paris showings and all manner of designs are accorded favor. There are silhouettes and costumes calling for naive designs and demanding those in the modern manner, while the undercurrent of Venetian influences which are cropping out here and there presages a demand for elegant fabrics threaded with gold or silver.

A recurrence of leaf motifs must be recorded as being highly important. A feathery black leaf on a white ground is used for one lovely gown of wide dimensions from be-ground was a huge bow of caprine tulle ribbon pleated in a fan like loop ending at the deep curve of the décolletage. The introduction of black and white for evening is not the least important modes of the moment. The use of contrast has become an expected note for evening as well as at other times.

Princess lines floating out below the hips and in extreme cases at the knees are being warmly received. They introduce such a new note that women are instinctively attracted, although the princess silhouette is only one of the many finding response.

A Fashionable Evening Dress.

6401. Lace in black or beige would be very attractive for this design. It comprises a waist portion in hip length, to which a flare skirt, cut with the popular side dip is joined. The bolero flares at the right side, and describes a curve from the underarm to the left shoulder. The bolero may be omitted. Sheer velvet in blue or brown would also be nice for this design. Metal cloth and velvet in combination, or crepe and velvet is also suggested.

The pattern for this attractive dress is cut in 5 sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 30 inch size with the bolero will require six yards of 39 inch material. If made without the bolero 1 yard less of 39 inch or 1/2 yard less of 54 inch material will be required. The width of the dress at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2 1/2 yards.

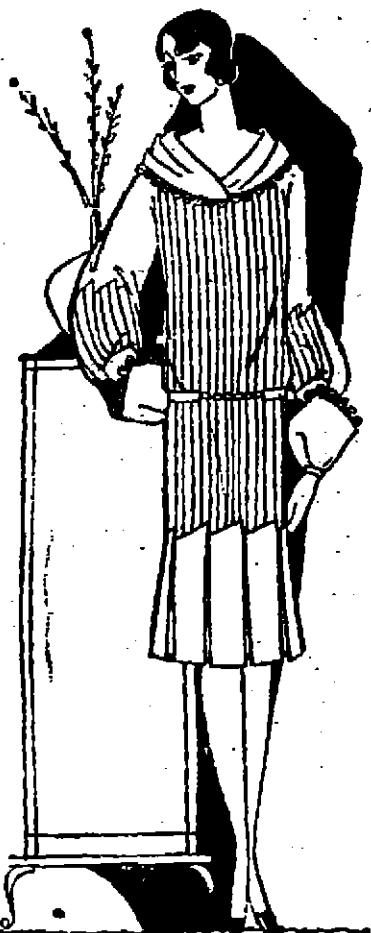

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

the skirt satin in a sweeping circular silhouette with the omnipresent elongated back line.

For day wear, skirts remain short if the exhibition is a criterion.

For the more formal type of afternoon ensemble a certain irregularity of hemline is preserved, but for other purposes, the desired indecision in line is achieved by plaits variously distributed and variously stitched. The street and formal ensemble prescribes also the jacket and short coat type.

The short coat or jacket is almost always accompanied by a tuck-in blouse of a contrasting color.

Interesting and unusual collar treatments were another highlight; in some cases the collar of the blouse was drawn over the coat usually in an unbalanced scarf arrangement. Scarf collars bowed to one side and in one instance an entire collar bowed to the left. The repeated use of bows added to the impression of highly feminized fashions.

Prints for Spring Are

Charming, Distinctive

In case you've wondered whether this spring's prints will differ radically from last year's, you'll be interested to know that this year's prints have several novel features of distinction. For instance, there are the ensemble prints—the same pattern on one heavy and one sheer fabric used together; the reverse color scheme, that is—the same pattern reproduced in exactly opposite color scheme.

T. B. Clinics In Ulster County

Last year the nation-wide campaign for the early diagnosis of tuberculosis awakened interest throughout the country. Physicians in New York state cooperated with health workers to contribute their part in this important work. It is evident this year that the work is not going to be allowed to lag.

At the request of the local health officers and of the county tuberculosis nurse, Miss Hazelweide, Dr. Frank Laidlaw, district state health officer, have made arrangements with the State Department of Health to hold four consultation clinics for diseases of the lungs in the following places:

Saugerties—Firemen's Hall, Monday, March 11.
Marlborough—Odd Fellows' Hall, Tuesday, March 12.
Kingston—Knights of Columbus Hall, Wednesday, March 13.
Kingston—Knights of Columbus Hall, 365 Broadway, Thursday, March 14.
The clinic hours will be from 1 to 5 p. m.
Dr. Chandler and Dr. Siegal, of the State Department of Health, will examine the patients and X-ray pictures will be taken. Anyone desiring an examination will be admitted upon presentation of a card signed by the family physician, or if there is no family physician, by the health officer. In an effort to assist the family physician, these clinics have been held throughout the state at intervals for the past eight years and large numbers of people have been referred by their doctors for consultation and X-ray. Aside from known cases of tuberculosis, patients who have been referred for examination have been of two types: Persons presenting such symptoms as bronchitis, asthma, coughs, persistent colds, loss of weight, undue fatigue and symptoms of the character; and persons, especially children, who have been in contact with cases of tuberculosis.

There is no doubt that the early diagnosis and prompt treatment of beginning cases, and the close supervision and periodic re-examination of exposed children will do much to further decrease the death rate from tuberculosis.

There are no charges connected with the clinic examination or X-ray.

News from the World on Wheels

The great new building, which is being added to the plant of the Federal Motor Truck Company at Detroit, is rapidly nearing completion. The demands of a business that is showing a 40 per cent increase over 1928 have resulted in the crowding of building operations to the highest possible rate of speed. A progressive final assembly line will run into the first floor of the new structure. At the end of this line will be located an automatic scale. A solid trainload of Durant, sizes just shipped to St. Louis from the factory at Lansing, according to executives of the company, is only one of the many indications of the wide spread and increasing interest which is being taken everywhere throughout the automotive circles in the future of Durant Motors under the new executive management headed by A. I. Philip, chairman of the board and F. J. Haynes, president. The train consisted of 43 cars carrying 172 model 40 Durants to dealers in St. Louis and the St. Louis district. Production of the new models of the Graham-Paige line in February attained a total of 10,904, the shortest month of the year having proved to be the second largest in Graham-Paige history, having surpassed by 1175 cars every month of 1928 except August, at the height of the selling season. The February total showed an increase of 74 per cent over the preceding month, and is 2 1/2 times the total for the same month last year.

Two de luxe body types are now available in the line of new Oakland All-American Sixes as a result of the recent introduction of a special 4-door sedan. This brings the total number of new Oakland models to eight.

An analysis of the factors responsible for the success and popularity enjoyed by the Packard Motor Car Company and its products during 1928, and plans for 1929 to surpass the record made last year were the keynotes of a sales meeting and dinner of the Packard Motor Car Company of New York, held Thursday, February 28th, at the Hotel Anson. Max M. Coleman, vice president of sales, was chairman of the conference, which was attended by more than four hundred executives, branch managers, sales representatives and salesmen of the New York Packard and Oakland and its subsidiary branches and dealers. The principal address was made by Lee J. Eastman, president of the company, and a vice president of the Packard Motor Car Company at Detroit. Mr. Eastman outlined the great advances Packard has made in the New York territory and throughout the entire country. H. E. Chamberlain, general sales manager at the factory, delivered a talk on Packard's new methods of manufacture, illustrated by motion pictures of the Packard plants in operation. There were also discussions of sales problems and merchandising policies by F. B. Sullivan, general Detroit Sales Manager, and William Elliot, American Manager of the New York Company.

Business Men Plan Banquet-Smoker

Planning for a banquet and smoker to be held on Tuesday, March 12, took up the major part of the time at the meeting of the downtown Business Men's Association held in their rooms at 22 Ferry street Wednesday night. Election officers, which was to have taken place Wednesday, was put over until future date.

The committee appointed to plan the banquet and smoker is headed by President Harry Kaplan of the downtown Business Men's Association. According to the plan of the committee, the event will be a well worth attending. It is expected that very downtown business man will be present.

A discussion concerning the stopping of buses at the terminal downtown took place at the meeting. One of the lines that run from Kingston to rural communities have been rather delinquent in serving patrons who use the downtown terminal, it is said, so the business men want to take all steps necessary to have the bus owners adhere strictly to their franchises.

Communion Services.
Communion services will be held Sunday at Shokan and Mt. Tremper. The Rev. J. B. Steketeer will conduct the services at both places.

Kerhonkson 4-H Club's Meetings

The first regular meeting of the Kerhonkson 4-H Club which is being organized by the Farm Bureau, was held last Tuesday at Kerhonkson High School.

Under the direction of Frank Grey and Clifton Miller, who are the local leaders for the boys' club, the following officers were elected: President, Albert Cohen; vice-president, Calvin Rider; secretary, Franklin Kelder; treasurer, Donald Davis.

At the next regular meeting the constitution and by-laws will be ratified and a club name selected.

In cooperation with the Home Bureau a girls' homemaking club is also being formed. They had their initial meeting last Tuesday. Mrs. Albert Myers of Kerhonkson will be the local leader of the girls' club.

Several organizations have donated prize money to 4-H workers which will be announced as soon as the registrations are complete. The county fair will probably have a 4-H department.

John Schoonmaker, a prominent dairyman of Accord, will assist the club members taking the calf project in securing a good animal to raise.

The Junior Project program not only teaches the practical application of scientific agriculture, but also includes training in good citizenship and leadership.

Farm Bureau Fruit Meetings

The Farm Bureau is holding a series of demonstration meetings in the fruit communities of Ulster county on March 11, 12 and 13, which are being conducted by Prof. Oskamp, of the College of Agriculture of Cornell.

They will be held at the following places:

Monday 11, 10 a. m., at W. P. Kieffer's, Flatbush.

Monday 11, 2 p. m., at June Hepworth's, Milton.

Tuesday 12, 2 p. m., at Eli DuBois's, New Paltz.

Wednesday 13, 10 a. m., at M. L. Birch & Son, New Hurley.

Wednesday 13, 2 p. m., at J. T. Tucker's, Wallkill.

Demonstration pruning which will give the maximum yield of low cost, high quality fruit, will be the main topic to be considered. Professor Oskamp will also discuss bridge grafting and top working and any question on cultural practices or orchard management which may be brought up.

Reception to Mr. and Mrs. Potter.
The members of Trinity M. E. Sunday school will hold a farewell reception for their retiring superintendent, George W. Potter, and Mrs. Potter, on Friday evening of this week at 7:30 o'clock, at the church parlors. Mr. Potter has been superintendent of the Sunday school for the past seven years and during that time he has given his time unselfishly to the work of the Sunday school. At present the school is in the most flourishing condition in its history, both as regards members and real work accomplished for the local church and also for the work of missions. Mr. Potter is leaving the city about May 1 and will make his home in Catskill. This reception is not for the members of the Sunday school only but for the membership of the church as well.

New Era League Meeting.
The Women's New Era League of the First Presbyterian Church will hold a meeting this evening at the church, to which all are cordially invited. The members of the Third Circle will give a stewardship pageant entitled "America's Call". There will be an exhibition of gifts given to Mrs. Hoskins to be used in her home and the hospital in the Lebanon Mountains, Syria. The business meeting will be at 7:30 o'clock.

POULTRY

RAISING POULTS DIFFICULT JOB

Sanitation Essential to Prevent Dread Blackhead.

That the new methods of raising turkeys are about to revolutionize the industry is indicated by the success of the new turkey raisers who have experienced in many parts of the country during the last season.

Word has gradually spread around during the last two or three years that the dreaded disease of blackhead could best be controlled by raising the poults under conditions where the sanitation can be carefully controlled. This has given rise to experiments with incubator hatching and artificial brooding and to keeping the growing poults on restricted range, says a writer in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

As the result of considerable experimenting, the new method has gradually taken the form of a rather definite program. Hatch the eggs in incubators; brood under artificial hovers; range on fresh, clean ground, and feed an all-mash starting and growing feed. This is a summary of the modern method now being tried with considerable success in many different places.

The writer has had the pleasure of being enabled to visit three turkey raisers in three different states who have been remarkably successful in raising turkeys by the method outlined above. These places were located in three different states—Michigan, Kentucky and Kansas, yet the methods followed were surprisingly similar and the results were uniformly satisfactory. The Michigan man has been using the same methods for two or three years and is specializing in turkey farming. He has a fine flock of more than 1,000 birds, and claims that his losses have been very low.

The Kentucky grower lives in the famous blue grass region not far from Lexington, and is a general farmer. He raises tobacco and other field crops, and in addition to the turkeys has a flock of more than 500 White Leghorn hens. It is worthy of note, however, that the turkeys and chickens are kept entirely separate.

There was nothing at all elaborate about his equipment as he used cheap portable brooder houses with small coal-burning brooders, and had homemade troughs for feed. He has about 250 turkeys left out of about 340 hatched. He claims that the losses were heavier than normal because the poults were chilled when he had some trouble with his brooder stoves.

The Kansas flock was found at the Kansas experiment station at Manhattan. This was an experimental flock, and the birds had been kept in close confinement without outdoor range, until they were sixteen weeks old. At that age they were transferred to a two or three-acre alfalfa field, and at the time of my visit, after four weeks on range, they were as fine and sturdy birds as could be wished for.

During their period of confinement, these poults were fed plenty of lawn clippings for green feed, but otherwise they had the same rations as growing chicks. This flock contained approximately 100 birds out of 150 that were started.

Sufficient Range for Success With Turkeys

A range of one acre of soil is considered sufficient for 100 turkeys from the age of eight weeks to marketable age. This area should also be divided into four sections and then each section used for only one month. The secret of successful turkey raising rests largely in providing fresh ground and the proper feeding of all feed. In the selection of range it should be one which has not been frequented by chickens and should not be situated where drainage from the poultry yards may result in infestation. It is, of course, desirable to have all the turkeys of the same age. There is no question but that turkeys can be successfully raised in confinement and that it does not pay to allow turkeys to range for their feed.

Separate Turkeys

Keep turkeys entirely away from chickens because the excrement from chickens may contain the worms which are believed to harbor the germ that causes blackhead, the most deadly enemy of the turkey family. There is always more or less trouble from lice and mites with brooded poults. The best stock you can buy will pay the largest profits. Experiments over a long range have shown there is no money in scrub turkeys.

Material for Eggs

Feeding affects the texture of the egg shells. It is usually necessary to supply layers with materials from which they may make the shell for the eggs. Crushed oyster shell is kept in hoppers so the birds may eat it at will, as it contains a large percentage of lime. Grit also is kept in hoppers, as it helps in grinding up the feed in the gizzard. Some kinds of grit also contain a certain amount of lime that helps the birds in the manufacture of egg shells.

Hudson's Craft Small

Henry Hudson's Half Moon was a boat of 80 tons burden. The last time the ton, has a somewhat flexible measure, but it is safe to say that the vessel in which Hudson sailed in 1609 was a shallow little craft of not over 500 tons and probably less.

Sunday School League Results

At the Y. M. C. A. conference Wednesday night three Senior Sunday School League games were played. The Redeemers defeated St. John's, 41 to 17, the Comforters were beaten by the Presbyterians, 36 to 25, and the Congregationals took the Clinton Avenue team into camp, 14 to 26.

The first game was a one-sided affair. The Redeemers began scoring in the early part of the contest and had the upper hand by a safe margin at the end of the opening period. In the second quarter they still continued to score heavily while St. John's scored a single or double now and then. The score at the end of the first half was 24 to 9, in the Redeemers' favor. The second half saw the Redeemers still scoring steadily. St. John's defense was not very effective. Messenger led the list of scorers with 15 points, while Raichle, 13 of the Redeemers, tallied 12 marks. MacCollam, of the losers, did the best shooting for his team, having 10.

The Presbyterians and the Comforters had a nip and tuck battle in the second game of the night. The Presbyterians started off taking the lead but they lost it and retained it several times before the half ended. The Presbyterian defense was more effective than that of the Comforters. The score at half time was Presbyterians, 16; Comforters, 15. The second half saw the Presbyterians get off to a strong drive for points. They scored consecutively until they had a 11 point lead on the Comforters, 23 to 22. It was after this that the Comforters found themselves. They began to pass the ball more accurately and when they had the chance made their shot good. The big lead was soon cut down, but the whistle blew before they could overtake it. The Presbyterians won, 36 to 25.

The last game was taken by the Congregationals from the Clinton Avenue M. E. team. The Congregationals stepped in front at the beginning and not once did their opponents threaten to take the lead. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 15 in the Congregationals' favor. In the second half the winners doubled their score. The game ended with the Congregationals well in the lead, 44 to 28.

Battle for Hornsby's Old Job

Andy Reese and Andy Cohen.

The two Andy-Reese and Cohen—one an Irishman and the other a Hebrew, will battle it out for the second base position on the Giants next summer. Reese has the call right now because of his sensational play in the plunkies last season, but Cohen was far from a failure during his first summer of play for McGraw.

Cohen had a hard row to hoe when he faced the fans of New York last spring, for he had been played up in the papers all winter as a coming star, and then he had to fill the shoes of the mighty Hornsby at second base. And behind Hornsby loomed the brilliant Frisch. And then, back behind Frisch and his exploits about second base was the phantom memory of Larry Doyle. Nothing daunted by the achievements of his predecessors, the young Hebrew boy, playing his first year in the majors, buckled in and tried his best to live up to all of his advance notices. He battled well, if not grandly. But as the season passed the midway mark, Cohen's batting fell off and his fielding was not so sure. Reese, playing his second season with the Giants, had a remarkable record for a newcomer to fast company. He came to the club as an outfielder and later was shifted to third base. He made many errors at the hot corner but they never phased this game and aggressive boy. He was up-and-at-em. He is the bull terrier type, instinctive and indomitable in his play. Handy Andy played the infield and the outfield in 1927 and last season he was tried at second base when Cohen's batting slump would not yield to treatment. He played the bag like a veteran.

Now, Andy Reese's batting average last season was just .308, nothing to get excited about, and his fielding was not up to the mark made at that station in days gone by by Frisch, but his spirit, his attitude and his possibilities have endeared him to McGraw. The type of which great players are made, he does everything in the game better than ordinary. He can hit, field and run. He has courage. In fact, he has too much opinion, and must gain more poise to attain his true value to the game. He is aggressive and ambitious. He takes care of himself and gives everything he has every day to the game.

TROJANS TO MEET WANDERERS TONIGHT

Tonight at 7:30 the Trojans and Wanderers will come together at Salvation Army Hall, North Frontstreet. Both teams are anxious to get into the battle, which promises to be one of the best court arguments played at the hall this season.

Friday night the Trojans will stack up against the Irish American quintet at Salvation Hall. This tilt is scheduled for 7 o'clock. The Irish team is more than anxious to scalp the Trojans, but it is contended it will be a hard task for the Trojans are now playing in tip-top form.

K. H. S. Quintet Seeks Honors

Local High School Varsity, MHSO League Champs, To Meet Spring Valley Experts—Kingston in Good Form.

The Kingston High School varsity basketball team, winners of the MHSO League pennant, are now venturing to obtain higher honors. The Maroon and White team is to enter the State Sectional Tournament at Middletown, Friday night. Coach Kins' men will play the champions of Rockland county, who happen to be of Spring Valley. The Spring Valley team is coached by "Buck" Sears, a former Kingston High School athlete. The game is scheduled to be played at 8 o'clock. There will be a preliminary game between the Sullivan county champs and the Orange county champs. The teams of the sectionals in which Kingston will enter will be played March 15, but the place as yet has not been decided upon.

The Kingston High School varsity football team was trimmed by the Spring Valley grid warriors in the last game of the season, but Kingston is in hopes of turning the table in the court game. Rumor has it that Spring Valley has an exceptionally strong team. This quintet has beaten some of the best teams in the lower section of the state. The Valley team has very big men. Without a doubt they will outweigh and tower over the Kingston boys, but whether they will outplay the locals is a fact yet to be proved.

Coach Kins is working his men hard but his practice periods for this strenuous playing are short. The practice consists of trying long shots and following them up, cut-in shots and passing the ball. By the time the boys finish this drill they are in good playing condition. Then a scrimmage between the varsity and second team follows. The varsity in this little game shows great form and one watching them would be made to have unlimited confidence in them. By the way, one must remember that the second team has played an excellent brand of basketball all through the season and in the past the varsity has received many a good trimming from the reserves. When the first squad succeeds in taking over the seconds it can be said that they are playing very good ball. The varsity show no weak points as they go through their drill. It is hoped they will continue to play the same brand of basketball at Spring Valley.

A large number of students will follow the team. A bus is expected to be run and along with fans in private cars, Kingston will have good support.

A "Firm"
The name "firm," as applied to a business establishment, is from the Latin "firmare" to confirm by signature. Gradually the meaning changed until it meant those who signed business letters—the "firm."

Zinna Kayoed At Rochester

Nick Zinna, one of the Kingston boys who made such a good impression by his win over Red Mills at Auburn Monday night, had the tables turned on him by Joe Trabon of Kansas City at Rochester Wednesday night. The clever little man from the west kayoed Nick in the third round of their scheduled 16-stanza fight.

Joe Myers and Johnny Blaine of this city were scheduled to fight on the same card, but the results of their scraps or whether they engaged in any was not given out.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press.)
Rochester, N. Y.—Joe Trabon, Kansas City, knocked out Nick Zinna, Kingston, N. Y. (13). Elmerado, Ark.—Mickey Feder, Canton, Ohio, technically knocked out Word Whitehead, Shreveport (8).

Valley Well Named
Death valley received its name from the fact that in 1850 a party of gold-seekers with their families made a one-day camp in the valley and less than half of them survived, the remainder being overcome by heat and thirst. A few escaped over the Panamint to the beautiful Californian plains; the others returned to the East.

FAMED SCOUT TO GET LAST WISH

"Yellowstone Kelly" to Be Buried in Boot Hill Cemetery at Billings.

Billings, Mont.—"I also desire that my body shall be buried in Boot Hill cemetery, Billings, Mont."

This codicil to the will of a famous early day character again calls attention to one of the unique cemeteries of the country. It is an institution having a peculiar fascination for pioneers of the Northwest. The provision above referred to was found in the last testament of "Yellowstone" Kelly, whose death recently occurred in Paradise, Calif., at the age of seventy-nine years, and who was one of the most famous Indian scouts known to the history of the West.

Boot Hill cemetery derived its name from the fact that every person originally buried therein died with his boots on. It was established in 1879, before the city of Billings was founded upon the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad, and the motivating cause was the need for burial grounds for characters who suddenly snapped out of an earthly existence in and near the town of Coulson, later the western terminus of the line. Later Billings was created as a municipality and Coulson, one mile away, became a ghost city.

"Yellowstone" Kelly was well acquainted with the underlying reason for the establishment of the cemetery, which, it is estimated, has a population of about forty bodies. Because of the historic incidents attaching to the cemetery, L. D. O'Donnell, of Billings, sponsored a movement providing for the fencing of the cemetery as well as the erection of a monument. Tombstones were not used in the burials, piles of stone serving as markers. The monument is of round boulders and stands about thirty feet high.

To bury Kelly on "Mountain," in order to perpetuate the name of "Yellowstone" Kelly, Mr. O'Donnell secured a small tract across the highway from the cemetery proper and named it Kelly Mountain. Mr. Kelly's body will be buried there in the spring.

An interesting story is told involving "Yellowstone" Kelly and "Liver-Eating" Johnson, another famous early day character of eastern Montana. Johnson gained the rather blood-curdling reputation from the fact that he was said to have pretended to eat the liver of an Indian victim, following a skirmish, to impress the native Redskins with his ferocity.

It seems that Kelly and Johnson were caught by a band of marauding Indians, and to save their lives decided to "ride it out." They mounted their steeds and made a run for it, being outnumbered to such a degree that a tight wound circle. The Indians began a bombardment with both arrows and bullets, and the situation was critical indeed.

Kelly had a better long than Johnson, but both managed to escape the missiles. The race continued, however, with Kelly gaining ground and Johnson barely holding his own. Kelly looked back and sought to spur Johnson to greater activity.

"Come on, Johnson," he yelled. "If you don't speed up you'll get you." Johnson retorted: "You don't think I'm trying to throw the race, do you?"

White Men Win Out.
The superiority of their mounts finally told, and they rode to safety after one of the closest calls either had ever experienced.

The Billings Commercial club has in charge the arrangements for the funeral of "Yellowstone," whose name was Luther Sage Kelly, friend of the late Theodore Roosevelt and Gen. Nelson A. Miles. The old scout lived his last days in California, in memories of a career such as comes to few men.

A native of Geneva, N. Y., Kelly gained fame as one of the greatest Indian scouts in history while he was with General Miles, but his exciting experiences were not confined to this period. Two Alaskan expeditions found him a member. He saw service in the Philippine insurrection, and later was provincial treasurer of Surabaja and was acting governor there when a contingent of insurgents kept him and a few companions surrounded for more than a year.

Fired with patriotism when he saw his former playmates marching as drummer boys at the head of a Union regiment, Kelly took advantage of a few days' vacation from school to seek admission into the army. He was under age and was rejected. But he continued, and finally was successful through the efforts of a friendly sergeant. He was a private, and then a corporal, in Company G, Tenth United States Infantry stationed near Richmond, to guard prisoners. He was discharged in 1893 following service at Fort Hiley, Minn.; Fort Hanson and Fort Wadsworth.

Graves Ramping Sioux.

The next seven years proved the most adventurous of Kelly's life, and it was in this period that he became known as one of the greatest hunters, trappers and Indian scouts. Against the protestations of Montana miners who ridiculed his plan, Kelly started alone to cross the Missouri on a hunting expedition, facing the dangers of warring Sioux. After an exciting experience with a war party of Sitting Bull's Sioux, he arrived at Fort Berthold, in the heart of a hostile Indian country. Here Mandan, Gros Ventre and Arikara tribes banded together for protection against the Sioux.

The following winter Kelly went to Fort Buford, at the mouth of the Yellowstone. He disposed of his horse and walked, reaching an unexplored section of the river region. He remained in that district several years, gaining a wide knowledge of its topography. In 1870 he attracted the attention of government officials by daring to do that which no other frontiersman would venture—carry dispatches unescorted.

Hearing that the last messenger had been killed, Kelly volunteered his services to the fort officials. He mounted a spirited mustang and started on what proved to be a thrilling adventure. He was attacked by two Sioux, one with a shotgun and the other bearing a bow and arrow. He killed one as he slid from his horse, and engaged in a duel with the other, finally shattering the elbow of the bow and arrow antagonist.

Indian Allies Elated.

The Mandans, Gros Ventres and Arikaras were elated at his victory and acclaimed him "The Little Man With the Big Heart." Even the Sioux were impressed with the "strong medicine" of this "man who never lays down his gun."

Kelly engaged as a free trapper in the then mysterious Yellowstone country until he knew it as did no other man. It was because of his life as a wilderness hermit that he became known as "Lone Wolf" and "Yellowstone" Kelly. When in 1873, Gen. George A. Forsyth was sent to explore the upper Missouri and Yellowstone, he took Kelly as guide and Forsyth's report was invaluable when the Sioux war broke out three years later.

Kelly's services for General Miles, for whom he became chief scout during the bitter winter campaign of 1876-77, were invaluable. As General Miles testified: "He remained with Miles until 1873 and from 1880 to 1883 was a scout for federal troops in the Ute country in Colorado."

Of the campaigns in which Kelly participated there were three that stood out prominently. The first was against Sitting Bull, who surrounded a wagon train. The "hostiles" were located by Kelly and his followers and routed by Miles.

In a second similar campaign, General Miles' troops defeated the Sioux, who sent several of their number for a conference with the general during which it was agreed that the Sioux should deliver three chiefs as hostages to insure that the tribe would leave the region.

A gang used to rouse volunteer fire fighters at Millport, Ala., for a quarter of a century, sounded recently after a 20-year silence. A horse caught fire.

INDIAN MAP ONLY CLEW TO TREASURE

Kentucky Man Loses Land to Hunt Cave.

Lexington, Ky.—Six barrels full of precious silver and coins valued at about $300,000 is the objective of J. D. Stamper, who has taken a lease on land in Carter county, about 80 miles from Lexington, where the treasure is reported to be.

Mr. Stamper said: "I feel confident the treasure is there and that I will find it. I am the only man that has ever found all the earthmarks noted on the map and that actually came across a cave such as described in my treasure map."

The treasure is said to have been buried by Indians who left Kentucky after the arrival of the white man. Silver was plentiful with the Redskins, and when they made their hasty exit they buried the treasure in a cave in Carter county.

They drew a map of the cave, its location and the ground marks that distinguished it, and in 1811 one Robert King, a fugitive from Europe, came upon a band of Indians camped in Kentucky. King made himself at home with the tribe.

King had no intention of leaving Kentucky with the Indians, and when the tribe left they gave him the buckskin treasure map as a farewell gift. King searched for the treasure, but was forced to give up, due to lack of aid. When he died in that vicinity he gave the map to an Indian by the name of Robert Tinker. Tinker was unable to find the cave, and when he felt the approach of death called an old friend, J. A. Rhoden, now living near Nevada, Ohio, to his bedside and gave him the map.

Rhoden gave the map to Stamper, who is a native of Carter county and familiar with the land in the section where the cave is located.
